The Coen Brothers, Second Edition Ronald Bergan 2016-01-05 Brought completely up to date, this insightful biography remains "a must for any self-respecting Coen (Screentrade). This fully updated edition of the first biography of the Coen Brothers includes their complete work so far, from Blood Simple to Inside Llewyn Dav reassessment of their remarkable career as a whole. Joel and Ethan Coen have pulled off the ultimate balancing act. Despite having their movies financed and di studios, they have managed to remain true independents, rejecting commercial clichés and never giving up on their own fiercely idiosyncratic vision. While doing established themselves among the world's leading filmmakers. From their startling debut, Blood Simple (1984), all of their movies reveal a distinctive stamp: a fla style, richly conceived characters, crisp dialogue, and brilliant casting. They have revitalized old Hollywood genres such as noir, screwball, and the western, giving contemporary sensibility. In this biography, Ronald Bergan traces the brothers' Jewish roots, their beginnings as film geeks in suburban Minneapolis, their battle feature made and released, through their early features and the movies of their maturity. He gives blow-by-blow accounts of the making of each movie. New ch those released since O Brother, Where Art Thou? (2000), with which the first edition of this book ended.

Dreams and Dead Ends Jack Shadoian 2003-01-16 Dreams and Dead Ends provides a compelling history of the twentieth-century American gangster film. Tell Me It Was Just a Dream Larry Gant Bell 2019-05-27 It's been said that everything can change in an instant. Valerie Walker can testify to this. One day her idylli consumed with the mundane tasks involved with being a mother of three active children and the wife of the mayor. From one breath to the next, all of that chaos struggles to salvage the shattered pieces of her life. But where does she begin? Her mother's heart wants to comfort her husband and children. Unfortunately, it must take precedence over luxury. If Valerie and her husband cannot keep everyone alive, there's no point in soothing their souls. Will they survive this tragedy, or surprise? If they do, will they be able to rebuild the peaceful lifestyle they all enjoyed before the catastrophe uprooted them from their tranquility? Or will this chaos tear them apart?

Workshops Proceedings of the 5th International Conference on Intelligent Environments 2009-10-02 Advances in the engineering of sensing and acting capabilities distributed in wide range of specialized devices is providing at last an opportunity for the fundamental advances that computer science achieved in the past few years to impact in our daily lives. This technical confluence is matched by a unique historical context where users are better informed (more aware of the benefits that they can provide) and production of more complex systems is becoming more affordable. Sensors/actuators deployed in an environment (in this context it can be any physical space: house, office, classroom, car, street, etc.) facilitate a link between an automated decision-making system connected to that technologically enriched space. This empowered environment enables the provision of an intelligent environment, i.e., "a digital environment that proactively, but sensibly, supports people in their daily lives." An active area of research which is attracting an increasing number of professionals (in academia and industry) worldwide. The prestigious 5th International Conference on Intelligent Environments (IE'09) is focused on the development of advanced intelligent environments and stimulates the discussion on several specific topics within the future of the area. As part of that five workshops were supported as part of IE'09. This volume is the combined proceedings of those five workshops: Workshop on Object Memories (DOMe'09), Workshop on RFID Technology: concepts, practices & solutions (RFID'09), Workshop on Artificial Intelligence Techniques for Ambient Intelligence (AITAmI'09), Workshop on Ethical Design of Ambient Intelligence (EDAmI'09), Workshop on Smart Offices and Other Workplaces (SOOW'09).

Navy Blue M. Stenfors 2014-06-23 In 1943 the United States is engaged in a global, life-and-death struggle with Germany, Japan, and Italy. Widespread fighting has depleted American men into the armed services, leaving a shortage in the country's workforce. Women find themselves in roles normally reserved for males. WAVES Women's Voluntary Emergency Services forms to integrate females into the Navy and to fill the workforce gap. Navy Blue follows four young recruits as they leave their civilian lives and struggle to adapt to the regimented life in the U.S. Navy. Honing her skills for management as a protégée of an industrial genius, practical Lou Matteson finds herself part of a diverse crew of young women. Martha Jo Stuckey, the wild child of a poor ranching family, clownes her way through life. Her unfailing good humor makes her a bearable friend for her friends. Wealthy Eleanor LaFrance leads the privileged life even as she rebels against it. A loner by nature, Eleanor finds she needs friends to survive an environment that demands teamwork. Shy, naive Katherine Anderson faces disappointment and betrayal by the men in her life. Her mates, providing encouragement and support, stand by her side. Together they form a solid sisterhood allowing them to thrive in a man's world. A tale of three unforgettable years in the lives of four young women narrates the story of times when the world balanced between good and evil and speaks to the power of women and the endurance of the human spirit.

After Hitchcock David Boyd 2010-01-01 Alfred Hitchcock is arguably the most famous director to have ever made a film. Almost single-handedly he turned the suspense genre into one of the most popular film genres of all time, while his Psycho updated the horror film and inspired two generations of directors to imitate and adapt his methods of movies. Yet while much scholarly and popular attention has focused on the director's oeuvre, until now there has been no extensive study of how Alfred Hitchcock's methods have affected and transformed the history of the film medium. In this book, thirteen original essays by leading film scholars reveal the richness and variety of Hitchcock's legacy as they trace his shaping influence on particular films, filmmakers, genres, and even on film criticism. Some essays concentrate on films that he influenced in diverse ways, including the movies of Brian de Palma and thrillers such as True Lies, The Silence of the Lambs, and Dead Again. Other essays look at genres that were influenced by Hitchcock's work, including the 1970s paranoid thriller, the Italian giallo film, and the post-Psycho horror film. The remaining essays investigate details within film culture and academic film study, including the enthusiasm of French New Wave filmmakers for Hitchcock's work, his influence on the filmic representation of women in the post-studio Hollywood era, and the ways in which his films have become central texts for film theorists.

Situation Sabotage Graeme Johns 2006 Contamination/sabotage terms feared by food industry executives around the world. They prefer to announce the problem as a 'potential situation'. One of the world's largest snack food manufacturers has called in Industrial Espionage Investigator Jake Barton to examine possible sabotage at a plant. Barton finds this latest situation coincides with glass contamination incidents his firm is already studying at two rival American food companies. However, an Australian facility holds an intense personal connection for Barton. Under immense pressure from the manufacturing company presidents to solve the case before the media, clues lead Barton in a frantic dash across the Pacific to Europe where he teams up with formidable ex-marine, Hec Kirby. Together they pursue the trail of sabotage and across the Atlantic to Florida. Three murders result before they finally discover the mastermind behind the sabotage.

Shanghai Literary Imaginings Lena Scheen 2016-12-15 This book draws on a wide range of methods-including approaches from literary studies, cultural studies, and sociology-to analyse the transformation of Shanghai through rapid growth and widespread urban renewal. Lena Scheen explores the literary imaginings of the city in the present, and future, in order to understand the effects of that urban transformation on both the psychological state of Shanghai's citizens and their perception of their inhabit.

Rethinking the Power of Maps Denis Wood 2010-04-16 A contemporary follow-up to the groundbreaking Power of Maps, this book takes a fresh look at what maps do for us and the interests they serve, and how they can be used in surprising, creative, and radical ways. Denis Wood describes how cartography facilitated the rise of the modern world, and how maps continue to embody and project the interests of their creators. He demystifies the hidden assumptions of mapmaking and explores the promises and limitations of counter-mapping practices today. Thought-provoking illustrations include U.S. Geological Survey maps; electoral and transportation maps; and numerous examples of digital cartography, participatory GIS, and map art.
